Neil Chatterjee

Former Chairman, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission - FERC
Washington, District of Columbia, United States

Experience

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission
Chairman, Commissioner
August 2017 - Present (6 years 3 months)
Washington DC-Baltimore Area

- Led the independent, bipartisan Commission with a multidisciplinary workforce in locations across the US. Agency was twice named the Best Place to Work in the Federal Government while serving as Chairman.
- Established a clear regulatory philosophy that drove policy achievements: Actions should be forward-thinking and competition-focused in order to create an ecosystem for smart energy-sector investments and innovation. FERC would be a catalyst – an enabler of competitive and transparent markets that would support needed investments.
- Established and implemented a multi-pronged plan to modernize the agency: Modernized IT infrastructure and overhauled public-facing technology platforms. Developed a world-class, multi-layered security and intelligence program. Enhanced interaction with stakeholders to reach to new audiences and amplify public engagement.
- Led the agency through the onset of a global pandemic. Marshalled agency resources and leadership to provide regulatory flexibility and support to industry and government partners, and to transition to full work-from-home status while maintaining the FERC family ethos in the face of that challenge.
